About BalletX Choreographic Fellowship

BalletX's Choreographic Fellowship is generously supported by the Wyncote Foundation at the direction of David Haas. Fellows are chosen from a wide range of national and international applicants. The fellowship offers one emerging choreographer each year the unique opportunity to create a world premiere on BalletX, under the guidance of an established, well-respected mentor, and with the institutional support of the company. One of the only programs of its kind in the country, this singular experience allows for a collaborative and stimulating process between the fellow, mentor, and BalletX dancers, which the public is invited to observe and participate in through open rehearsals, artist panels, social media, performances, and more.

About John McFall

John McFall, the 2020 Choreographic Mentor, learned to dance from Ms. Tatiana Dokoudovska, who instilled within him an insatiable curiosity and passion to commit to what you love. At age 16, he became a contracted equity dancer with Kansas City's Starlight Theater, one of the showcase Summer Stock venues in the country. He was a principal dancer with San Francisco Ballet for two decades, and there was encouraged to develop his choreographic voice. Commissions followed, including such companies as National Ballet of Canada, Dance Theater of Harlem, American Ballet Theater, San Francisco Opera, Hubbard Street Dance, Oakland Ballet, and others. With a vision and keen interest to engage communities and bring the arts into people's lives, John accepted the position of Artistic Director with BalletMet in 1986. This was followed by the opportunity to lead Atlanta Ballet as Artistic Director / CEO for twenty-one seasons in 1994. Presenting repertoire that was innovative, original, and relevant to current times became a McFall trademark. Throughout his career, he has remained committed to education and community, exemplified by his founding of Atlanta Ballet's Centre for Dance Education.
